

overcoming underemployment

Volunteer at COOP Careers

We all need the right relationships to launch a meaningful career.

At COOP, we believe in the power of mentorship and guidance. We seek individuals who have a passion to advise those just beginning their careers and have a plethora of ways volunteers can support our community as an individual or with a team, including:

Open houses

These are a great way to give our students exposure to different industries. Give a tour of your space, host a panel, and/or share available opportunities.

Mock interviews

During interview prep our students have the opportunity to get real-time practice in developing their skills. Volunteers meet with students and then provide feedback and advice on how they can continue to develop their confidence during this critical part of their job search.

Panelist opportunities

Each semester COOP holds panels to give our students encouragement and wisdom. Panels typically focus on a specific topic, including the following:

- Women in data
- Diversity in the workplace
- Meet the recruiters

Technical workshops

COOP volunteers teach the analytical knowledge that helps young professionals build the skills they need for the careers they deserve.

Visit coopcareers.org to learn more about these opportunities.